

Increasing Company Synergy

Marcia Jackson

Marcia Jackson, Training Resources, has helped many businesses, large and small to increase their productivity and profitability through your most important asset - your people.

When personalities are assessed and business owners can identify what makes people tick, they are able to maximize each person's contribution and potential, thus increasing company synergy that results in greater personal and team satisfaction as well as profitable growth.

Jackson's work extends to helping business owners and salespeople fine tune sales presentations, from elevator speeches to full presentations. Be sure to ask about techniques to prevent "Death by PowerPoint," because no one likes a dull presentation.

Jackson works with clients across the country, both on-site or via phone/Internet. For more information, call 704.366.5929 and visit www.MLJackson.com to learn the full spectrum of services offered and read testimonials from many of the delighted business owners and managers she has helped.
